

Dear friends and family, my brothers and sisters in Christ,

Since graduating from high school in 2024, I have been pursuing a career as an EMT. I have enjoyed my time working and continuing to learn in the medical field; however, I have still felt a deep burden and call on my life for missionary work. God has brought an incredible opportunity for me to grow in discipleship and missions over the 2025/2026 school year through a ministry program of the International Conference on Missions called EnterMission.

Based in Knoxville, TN, and located near Johnson University, EnterMission consists of two semesters. The first, beginning in early September, is on campus, focusing on classroom work in discipleship and missions. The second, a semester abroad, where I will continue to grow my knowledge and experience in the mission field. I will dedicate 10 months of my life to learning how to be the hands and feet of Jesus in both local settings and overseas. EnterMission will provide me with the most up-to-date training in discipleship, which requires time, energy, and a willingness to be molded as I live and work in community. Structured in a trade-school fashion, this program will provide me with a hands-on approach to ministry formation, equipping me for whatever God calls me to in the mission field.

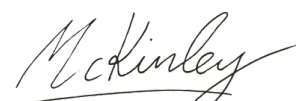

I'm incredibly excited to follow God's lead into this program and begin learning about resilience and dependence on God in the context of the mission field. I know He will work in and through me for His glory. As with everything, I have needs that I can't meet alone, but this is where the Church comes in. Missionary work isn't possible without the prayers and support of the Church behind everyone God sends out. You are receiving this letter because you are part of the Church that God has surrounded me with, and I need your help.

First, I would like to invite each of you to join me in prayer over this program, not only for me, but also for my team. There are numerous stories in the Bible and modern-day mission work where prayer has played a central role in missionary work and significantly impacted the outcome of situations. I would love for you to come alongside me in prayer, asking God to humble me, to work in me, and to work through me, so that He may show me the work He has called me to do through this program. Prayer is more powerful than we know.

Along with prayer, I need to raise financial support to cover the costs of this training. My monthly expenses are approximately $1,200. I will need to raise this amount each month for the next 10 months to complete the program. I will also need to cover any international flight and travel expenses. This is a huge burden to me, but I know God will provide as He always has in the past. If you feel called to support me in this journey to pursue God's calling on my life, I would be grateful to have you as a financial supporter, either through a monthly commitment or a one-time donation. I have included more information on how to give at the end of this letter.

I am excited to share updates throughout the year on how God is working in my life and sending me out into the world to make His name known and change my life and those around me. If you would like more information or to stay in contact with me directly, feel free to call, text, or email me. I would love to discuss the program and my passion for mission work with you in more detail.

Looking forward to building the Kingdom together!
